Brinkley, Alan. The Unfinished Nation, Volume 2, 7th ed. 2014 ISBN#978-0077412302

Summers, Anthony and Robbyn Swan. The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11. New York: Ballantine Books, 2011. ISBN#: 978-0-8129-7809-1

Course Goals and Objectives:

History 101 is a lower level survey of United States History from 1877 to the present. This course will examine the evolution of the United States from an isolationist nation to a world power. The intent is to give the student not only a firm grasp of American history but also a solid understanding of why these events were, and still are, important. The course will examine these developments chronologically with particular emphasis placed upon foreign and domestic political, economic, and military policies, as well as the evolution of industry and society. While it is hoped that students will develop a strong and durable content knowledge of U.S. History, HIST 101 is primarily concerned with developing and assessing critical thinking skills that will be relevant to the student long after completing the course, regardless of their major or eventual career path.

The desired student learning outcomes in HIST101 are:

1. Acquire a basic understanding of historical changes in selected regions and time periods.
2. Recognize that historical narratives are constructed by historians and change over time.

3. Discuss historical questions in written and oral form.
4. Learn to recognize the difference between primary and secondary sources and begin to think critically and analytically about the past.
5. Compose an outside paper, driven by an argument and supported by historical evidence.

Course Requirements

1. Attendance is expected. Please be prompt.
2. Students are expected to be engaged with course readings, lectures, and discussions.
3. Students should demonstrate professional behavior and respect toward the instructor and fellow students. Students should be paying attention in class and not engaging in other activities that have nothing to do with the class, i.e. texting, inappropriate or unwarranted chatting with fellow students, playing on the internet, listening to music devices, working on assignments for other classes, sleeping, etc.
4. Unless you are dying or in jail, you are expected to take all exams and quizzes at their scheduled times. Call me prior to the date if you must miss it.
5. All assignments are to be turned in the day they are due, or if you must miss the class, they are due the class day before they are due.
6. Cheating on tests &/or plagiarizing on papers is unacceptable and will result in a failing grade.

Evaluation & Grading

Exams: There will be 6 exams. Exams will be over the course content and the readings. Each exam is worth 100 points.

Research Paper Proposal: Select a topic from the time period covered in this course. The proposal should support your research paper and is intended to structure the research and examination of your topic. It is graded, and gives me a sense of your topic, what you intend to read and research, etc. You must include a bibliography with a minimum of 5 sources utilizing both primary and secondary sources. It should include your topic and thesis. Then there should be an outline of the paper that includes headings, subheadings, and sub-subheadings if necessary, that breakdown the theoretical framework and concepts to be discussed in your paper. It is worth 50 points.

Research Paper: You will write a research paper on a topic from this era that must have prior approval. It must have a well-developed thesis, which means you must take a position on a topic and prove it with logical reasoning, examples, and research. For example, you cannot simply write your paper on the Vietnam War. You could write that America's political and military success in Vietnam was severely hampered by a slowing growing lack of citizen support for the war's efforts. The paper should be 1200-1500 words (approximately 5 pages) excluding your works cited. The research paper is worth 200 points.

Document Essays: Throughout the semester you will be required to construct historical argument driven essay employing primary sources from various time periods. You will be required to synthesize your knowledge with the information contained within the provided documents. These essays will be written in class and worth 50 points each.

Written Responses: There will be periodic questions or paragraphs written using the readings and outside resources. These questions will coincide with the material covered. Some will revolve around primary sources, and some will revolve around scholarly works. These are worth between 10 and 30 points depending on task and length.

Notes on Written Assignments

- Students who engage in academic misconduct related to cheating, plagiarism, or fabrication will earn a zero on the work in question.
- According to the University of Northern Colorado’s Academic Misconduct, Plagiarism is when “a student represents the ideas of another in a paper without citing the work.”¹
- Papers must be typed, using 1” inch margins, Times New Roman Font, size 12.
- All assignment must be written with complete sentences, using correct spelling and proper grammar.
- Proofread your work before you submit it! Remember spell checking it is NOT the same as proofreading it!
- Do not use contractions, such as don’t, isn’t or it’s. Sentences should be written with do not, is not, or it is.
- Avoid writing in first person when writing. Do not include I, we, our, you, etc. This is incorrect: Our troops defeated the enemy. This is the correct: The enemy was defeated by U.S. troops.
- Do not use any form of a “being” verb. Occasionally it is necessary but try to avoid it as much as possible.
 Incorrect: The pen is being held by Tom. Correct: Tom holds the pen.
 For more information about passive voice, see <http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/>
- Do not use slang, jargon, or obscenities
- Avoid using block quotations when possible. If you must use them, remember it is when the quotation is longer than 5 lines.
- The first time you mention an author or person, use their full name, i.e. Thomas Jefferson. After that refer to the author as Jefferson or he. Never refer to the person by his or her first name.
- All citations need to be formatted using Chicago/Turabian style, using footnotes or endnotes and a bibliography. Please refer to write source for information on how to use Chicago style.
