Description
Sociology of Race and Racism (SOC 237, LAC, gtP) examines intergroup relations and the dynamics of power relating to race, ethnicity, and other intersecting dimensions of social life that have produced tension, conflict, and inequality historically and in the present. The course explores the persistent impact of race and ethnicity on individuals, groups, institutions, and American society as a whole. This class will explore the ways in which race and ethnicity were created and continue to be recreated in US society as well as the ways in which these social constructions create and recreate inequality. You will examine the history and contemporary reality of race and racism as you learn to critically analyze inequality.

Student Learning Objectives
- Define and apply sociological concepts regarding race, ethnicity, and majority/minority group relations.
- Examine, discuss, and critique racial and ethnic inequality from a sociological perspective.
- Apply the sociological imagination and theoretical perspectives to current social issues regarding race, ethnicity, and majority/minority group relations.
- Recognize and reflect on their own understanding of race and ethnicity.
- Enhance critical-thinking and writing skills.

Course Materials
You are required to obtain one book for this course: The Matrix of Race by Coates, Ferber, and Brunsma.

Academic Integrity: Cheating, Plagiarism, and Consequences
It is expected that members of this class will observe strict policies of academic honesty and will be respectful of each other. Any instances in which cheating, including plagiarism and unauthorized use of copyrighted materials, computer accounts, or someone else’s work is suspected, will be referred to Student Services and will be investigated. Papers will be uploaded and screened through Canvas to ensure academic honesty.

If cheating of any kind is determined, you may fail the course and/or receive a 0 on the assignment or exam.

Some examples of academic dishonesty include:

Cheating: Intentionally using or attempting to use unauthorized materials, information, or study aids in any academic exercise.

Plagiarism: Intentionally or knowingly representing the words or ideas of another as one’s own in any academic exercise. Cite everything you use from any source!!

Fabrication: Intentional and unauthorized falsification or invention of any information or citation in any academic exercise.

Facilitating Academic Dishonesty: Intentionally or knowingly helping or attempting to help another student to cheat or plagiarize.

Additionally: forged documents, forged signatures, and submission of the same documents to different courses are all serious violations. For more information, see: http://www.unco.edu/dos/academicIntegrity/AcademicMisconduct.html.

Student Code of Conduct
All students are expected to adhere to the University’s Student Code of Conduct, designed to promote a safe and respectful learning environment. For more information about your rights and responsibilities as a UNC student see: http://www.unco.edu/dos/academicIntegrity/AcademicMisconduct.html.

Disability Resources
It is the policy and practice of the University of Northern Colorado to create inclusive learning environments. If there are aspects of the instruction or design of this course that present barriers to your inclusion or to an accurate assessment of your achievement (e.g. time-limited exams, inaccessible web content, use of videos without captions), please communicate this with your professor and contact Disability Support Services (DSS) to request accommodations. Office: (970) 351-2289, Michener Library L-80. Students can learn more about the accommodation process at http://www.unco.edu/disability-support-services/.

This syllabus is an agreement between you—the students, and me—your professor. The requirements and expectations stated here are non-negotiable and by taking this class you are agreeing to them.
